

ResponseWare™ Web

ResponseWare is our revolutionary system for laptops, desktops, mobile phones, PDAs, and pretty much anything that can connect to the internet*. Turn your computer or mobile device into a virtual ResponseCard giving you the ability to do all the amazing yet usual stuff with TurningPoint, as well as submit questions back to the presenter and send numerical or essay type answers. And all this from the comfort of your preferred QWERTY or texting keyboard.

Just as mobile as you.

The combination of ResponseWare with our easy-to-use ResponseCard keypads creates the most advanced available option for audience input devices to date. Since the growth in popularity of multi-purpose, Internet-ready personal devices as well as the broad availability of wireless Internet connectivity, Turning chose to develop the next generation in response technology-a solution that could take advantage of mobile computing, making for a convenient, cost-effective response system.

User Options

Browser-Based:

ResponseWare requires no special software to install or configure and no need to alter firewall or port settings. The system supports nearly all JavaScript™-enabled web browsers across multiple platforms and operating systems. Turning Technologies provides all of the hosting and web services necessary for a ResponseWare web-enabled interactive polling session, which eliminates the need for any organization to host, maintain, and support the application and allows for immediate utilization of the response technology.

Device Specific Applications:?

Participants can download ResponseWare for iPhone, iPod touch® or BlackBerry® smartphone to take advantage of the specific features and functionality available with the device. Respond with:

- Apple iPhone
- BlackBerry smartphones
- Microsoft® Windows Mobile® devices
- Laptops or desktops
- And more...*
